

Life Purpose Archetype Number 9

In the spirit of oneness, I give freely and love unconditionally.

Contribution

If your Life Purpose is symbolized by Archetype Number 9:

You are a Humanitarian Healer

The Archetype Number 9 symbolizes our capacity to experience conscious interconnectivity with all creation. It is the last of the 9 Pathways of the Soul and therefore represents contribution. As a human expression, Archetype 9 can be described as the Humanitarian Healer, motivated by the unity principle to contribute to the greater good of others and all of life from a state of selfless service. The greatest capacity of the 9 is the capacity to love unconditionally and to hold the agony and the ecstasy of the whole world within a heart filled with compassion, and to forgive!

The Number 9 is symbolized by a 9-pointed star. In geometry, the nine-pointed star is sometimes called a nonagram. The Hebrews referred to nine as the symbol of immutable Truth. The Ennead, or nine pointed star, is an ancient and sacred symbol. It comprises three trinities. The Egyptian, Celtic, Greek and Christian myths all have an ennead of nine gods and goddesses, representing the entire archetypal range of principles.

We are all familiar with the number 9 through the phrases “A stitch in time saves nine”, and “cats have nine lives”. Interestingly, as the highest single-digit number, 9 symbolizes completeness in many religions, and it reveals a mirror symmetry among numbers: if any number is multiplied by nine the resulting digits always add to nine: $2 \times 9 = 18$; $3 \times 9 = 27$, $4 \times 9 = 36$ and so on.

For the Archetype Number 9, when you are centered and aligned, you:

- Have a strong and consistent drive to contribute to the wellbeing of others
- Adore and celebrate the beauty of the human spirit
- Are deeply motivated to contribute to the creation of a better world however you can
- Know that when you contribute to one person, the blessing of this healing interaction ripples out through the field of our interconnectivity to into the fabric of the whole
- Love to celebrate everything, especially completions.
- Accept that death is not separate from life and that it is just as important to acknowledge loss as it to celebrate the endings that come with accomplishments
- Are often called to transformative justice work
- Understand the power of truth and reconciliation processes for restoring harmony in relationships
- Have the capacity to give and forgive unconditionally
- Embody the spirit of generosity and prosperity consciousness of the heart
- Trust that what goes around comes around
- Have great tolerance and celebrate diversity

- Respect and honor the vast spectrum of human emotions including the more uncomfortable emotions such as fear, anger, or grief, in others and myself
- Adore all expressions of awareness of shared humanity and any effort by any individual or group that recognizes the truth of our interconnectivity
- Have the capacity for deep emotional presence and awareness and can easily empathize with others in a way that is healing

When stressed, triggered, in need of healing or additional leadership skills, you may:

- Have more compassion and love for others than you do for myself
- Over-empathize with others and traumatic world events in a way that pulls you out of your own center and ability to contribute, leading to feelings of fear and hopelessness
- Go way too far from self-awareness and care, and can become a martyr
- Not like endings. You may hold on to people, places, and things
- Refuse to forgive or have trouble forgiving fully and freely
- Avoid feeling the depth of your grief when experiencing loss
- Feel purposeless when you only focus on yourself
- Not want to know about the suffering of others and shut yourself down to awareness of tragic or troubling global situations and issues
- Be intolerant of those who are intolerant
- Be highly emotional and sometimes struggle with mood swings
- Not trust humanity and wish you could separate myself from the whole

Example of the Humanitarian Healer

Oprah's heart is as big as the world! She emanates the essence of the Humanitarian Healer through her many mediums of creative expression, including her philanthropic efforts over the years. She is on a mission to bring public awareness to individuals, communities, and world situations in need of healing and we love her for it!

In 2004, Winfrey became the first black person to rank among the 50 most generous Americans and she remained among the top 50 until 2010. By 2012 she had given away about $400 million to educational causes. As of 2012, Winfrey had also given over 400 scholarships to Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia. Winfrey was the recipient of the first Bob Hope Humanitarian Award at 2002 Emmy Awards for services to television and film. To celebrate two decades on national TV, and to thank her employees for their hard work, Winfrey took her staff and their families (1065 people in total) on vacation to Hawaii in the summer of 2006.

In 2013, Winfrey donated $12 million to the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture. President Barack Obama awarded her the Presidential Medal of Freedom later that same year.
